

MUSIC SUPPLEMENT TO LUTE NEWS 157 (APRIL 2026): LUTE SETTINGS OF MUSIC BY ANDREA FELICIANI
VINCENZO BELLAVER AND ARCANGELO CORELLI

ANDREA FELICIANI (d.1596)

Andrea Feliciani was born in Siena and is recorded as a pupil of Palestrina (1525-1594) probably when the latter was musical director at St Peters in Rome. Feliciani was appointed maestro di cappella of Siena cathedral in November 1575. He retained the position until he died twenty years later gaining the reputation as the leading sixteenth century Siennese composer.¹ Three lute fantasias are ascribed to him in an Italian manuscript copied in Siena around 1590 (Siena lute book NL-DHnmi Kluis A 20) and could have been directly acquired from him by the unknown scribe of the manuscript. The fantasias are in three or four voice polyphony throughout and Feliciani probably composed them for lute rather than them being intabulations by him given that he is recorded as a fine lutenist in a note in a library catalogue at Siena cathedral. One of the fantasias has an exact concordance in an Italian manuscript of unknown provenance formerly in the library of Arnold Dolmetsch and now in Cambridge University Library.² No other lute music by Feliciani is known, apart from settings for lute and voices of two madrigals from his Il primo libro de madrigali a sei voci of 1586 found in Joachim van den Hove's Florida 1601, probably intabulated by Hove. Feliciani composed madrigals and sacred music that was published in Venice, and his vocal music is also found in a number of anthologies published by others.³ Masses and other sacred music also survive in manuscripts at Siena Cathedral.

The lute settings in Hove are not complete intabulations of the madrigals, but seem to be a cantus secundus parts according to Jan Burgers.⁴ Nicholas Yonge also included a madrigal 'For grief I die enraged' ascribing it to Feliciani in Musica Transalpina book II 1597 (facsimile on p. 2 here), an 'Englished' setting of Feliciani's 'Io per languir', the second part of his madrigal 'Fra i vaghi e bei crin dore' published in Armonia di scelti authori a sei voci 1586, pp. 4-5.⁵ The page filler as an appendix is a setting of the canario additional to those edited for Lute News 59 (September 2001).

VINCENZO BELLAVER (1540-1587)

Vincenzo Bellavere (1540/1-1587) was an organist and madrigal composer first recorded as organist of the church of the Crosieri at Padua in 1567. He moved to Venice the following year to take up the post of organist to the Scuola Grande di S Rocco returning to Padua as organist at the cathedral in 1584 before replacing his teacher Andrea Gabrieli in 1586 as organist at San Marco back in Venice and dying there eight months later at the age of 46. He composed madrigals and a few sacred works that were published in a variety of printed anthologies between 1567 and 1615 and a toccata is ascribed to him in the organ treatise by Girolamo Diruta, Il Transilvano (Venice 1593), pp. 50-53, that is different to the fantasia in Terzi, presumably intabulated for lute from an organ original, as suggested by the awkward chords.⁶

ARCANGELO CORELLI (1653-1713)

Archangelo Corelli was born in Fusignano in the diocese of Ferrara. He received his musical education in Bologna from 1666 and was accepted as a member of the Accademia Filarmonica of Bologna by 1670 when he was aged only 17. He moved to Rome by 1675 where he spent most of his career supported by wealthy patrons.⁷ He only published six collections⁸ but died a rich man in Rome in 1713 and was buried in the Pantheon.

Lute arrangements of his music were presumably made by others, and the five known to me are included here. They are for 11-course lute in baroque tuning (dfdf) - see the end of nos. C1 and C5 for tuning of the diapasons. The unique source of C1 is a setting of the first of two giges in a suite of seven dances headed Ouverture de Mr C: Logis, suggesting it was arranged for lute by the Bohemian lutenist/composer Jan Antonin Losy (c.1650-1721) from Prague, see no. 8 in Vogl's catalogue.⁹ C2 bi/ii are my transcriptions from a xerox of a guitar arrangement I was given in the 1970s. Arrangements of Corelli's violin sonatas Op. 1-4 for the violin-sized 5-course 'Pardessus de viole' and arrangements of the twelve violin sonatas Op. 5 for bass viols are found in manuscript sources.¹⁰

The musical score for 'The Rose Tree' is presented in a four-staff system. The first staff contains the melody, which is a simple tune with a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and a 2/4 time signature. The melody is written in a single line with a treble clef. The second staff contains the lyrics, which are written in a single line. The third and fourth staves contain the accompaniment, which is written in a single line with a bass clef. The accompaniment consists of a simple harmonic pattern that supports the melody. The score is divided into three measures by vertical bar lines. The first measure contains the first two lines of the melody and the first line of the accompaniment. The second measure contains the next two lines of the melody and the second line of the accompaniment. The third measure contains the final two lines of the melody and the third line of the accompaniment. The score is written in a clear, legible font, and the notes are clearly marked with stems and beams. The lyrics are written in a simple, sans-serif font, and the key signature and time signature are clearly indicated at the beginning of the score.

Handwritten musical score for "The Rose Tree" in 3/4 time. The score is written on a treble and bass staff. The key signature is one flat (B-flat). The time signature is 3/4. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and fingerings. The piece is marked with a 3/4 time signature and a key signature of one flat. The score is divided into measures, with some measures containing multiple notes and rests. The piece concludes with a double bar line and a repeat sign.

Handwritten musical score for Gigue (Corelli) in 3/4 time, measures 1-22. The score is written on a single staff with a treble clef and a 3/4 time signature. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, accidentals, and dynamic markings (f, a). The score is divided into measures by vertical bar lines, with measure numbers 3, 4, 7, 10, 13, 16, 19, and 22 indicated at the beginning of their respective lines. The handwriting is in a historical style, and the paper shows signs of age.

Measures 1-22 are shown, with measure numbers 3, 4, 7, 10, 13, 16, 19, and 22 indicated at the beginning of their respective lines. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, accidentals, and dynamic markings (f, a). The score is divided into measures by vertical bar lines, with measure numbers 3, 4, 7, 10, 13, 16, 19, and 22 indicated at the beginning of their respective lines.

Handwritten musical score for Gigue de Corelli, A9B16. The score is written on ten staves, each with a treble and bass clef. The music is in 3/4 time, indicated by a '3' in a circle at the beginning of the first staff. The notation includes various notes (quarter, eighth, sixteenth), rests, and accidentals (sharps, flats, naturals). There are also dynamic markings like 'f' (forte) and 'r' (ritardando). The score is divided into measures by vertical bar lines, and some measures are marked with a '4' below the staff, possibly indicating a measure rest or a specific tempo change. The piece concludes with a double bar line and a repeat sign at the end of the tenth staff.
